

Boromarajonani College of Nursing, Saraburi (BCNS)

Background

Boromarajonani College of Nursing, Saraburi (BCNS) was the third academic Institute established in 1966 by the Ministry of Public Health. Initially, it offered an undergraduate programme of assistance in nursing. Later, in 1970 BCNS introduced an undergraduate programme of assistance in nursing and midwifery.

In 1978, the school was renamed as Saraburi Nursing College and introduced an additional four-year Bachelor of Nursing programme.

In 1994, Princess Srinagarindra conferred the name “Boromarajonani College of Nursing” to The Health Workforce Development Institute, representing each of the 31 nursing colleges and ending with a province name. Princess also conferred a royal permission to use the royal abbreviation signature “ศน.” for the college symbol and renamed the college “Boromarajonani College of Nursing, Saraburi”

BCNS currently offers a full range of academic programmes consisting of:

1. Bachelor of Nursing Science
 - Professional Nurses (four-year programme)
2. Certificate levels
 - Nursing Specialty in Nursing Practitioner (Primary Medical Care)
 - Public Health Executive

Vision

- Best academic quality
- Community-based Practices
- Being worldwide acceptance

Mission

1. Produce nursing graduates and enhance health providers' competencies.
2. Conduct research and knowledge development as well as education management.
3. Provide health-related education and demonstration to public.
4. Promote and support Thai culture and tradition, environment, social development and democracy.

Philosophy

BCNS believes that an individual is holistic and interacts with environment. He/she has ability to learn and gain self-development. To build professional competencies, morality, honor, dignity, and ‘sufficient economy’ concept-based happiness among learners, an education program should regard kindness, student center and community-based approaches, and life-skill building. BCNS has involved in social and professional development by conducting research and providing health-related education. Furthermore, it supports religion and Thai culture with the concern of Thai values.
